Greater Vernon 2022 BC Winter Games COVID-19 FAQs for Volunteers

The BC Games Society has developed three strategies related to the health and wellbeing of everyone at the Games: reducing major contact points, giving participants and volunteers more space, and creating layers of defence. The specific tactics to achieve this include restricting numbers at venues, reducing numbers of individuals accessing venues, and requirement to wear masks, COVID-19 health screening, and a requirement to provide proof of full vaccination, etc.

viaSport Return to Sport Guidelines and the Ministry of Education Back to School Plan were used to guide the BC Games Society's return to Games planning because these plans best capture the essence of a multi-sport games environment. There is sport competition which is supported by the viaSport guidelines and then there are many interactions beyond that such as transportation, food services, accommodation. It was possible to gain insight on how to manage these other variables, unique to a multi-sport games environment, through the implementation strategies within the Ministry of Education Back to School Plan.

It is each person's responsibility (and an expectation of the BC Games Society) that all participants and volunteers be aware of how they impact others by who they are in contact with before, during, and after the Games. They will be asked to be aware of how they are expanding their contacts in the days leading up to the Games and after the Games, to keep contact with those outside of the Games as minimal as possible.

Games Cohort: One or more sports that stay together at the Games accommodation site. The maximum size per cohort is 300 participants and up to 3 sports. The number is based on the maximum permitted at one accommodation site.

Travel Cohort: The group within which participants travel to, and from, the host community on BC Games transportation. Bus: 50 max. Plane: 140 max

Games Capacity: The participant contingent from an individual sport at the Games. All sports at the BC Winter Games have a maximum capacity of 120 participants (athletes & coaches).

Overview
As restrictions ease, will plans change?	The BC Games Society is working closely with the Ministry of Health, Interior Health, the Ministry of Tourism, Arts, Culture and Sport, as well as our Provincial Sport Organizations (PSO) partners to monitor changes within the sport sector specifically and the province in general. As updates are available the BC Games Society will work with the host society and the PSO to determine if planning can or should be adjusted.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	June 17, 2021
Who was consulted to plan for the modifications necessary to host a Games?	As the BC Games is broader in scope from simply the 'field of play', it was necessary to look at entities beyond the sport sector to give insight on how to proceed. Leaders in a variety of sectors were consulted such as Transport Canada; Conference Board of Canada; Food & Beverage/Tourism sector; Boarding Schools; Emergency Shelter Guidelines; Elections Canada; etc. Through information gathered from a variety of industry contacts, it was possible to identify modifications required within the Games. If the Games are going to be postponed or cancelled, who makes this decision and what is the timeline to decide?	The major funding partner for the Games is the Ministry of Tourism, Arts, Culture and Sport, therefore, the final decision of postponement or cancellation will be made by the Minister's office. As planning proceeds and the state of the province becomes clearer, the BC Games Society will make recommendations to the Minister's office as to next steps. The BC Games Society is aware of the implications of timing for a decision such as this, therefore we will continue to monitor the situation and keep our government partners informed.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	June 17, 2021
COVID-19 Adjusted Health and Safety Protocols
What is the BC Games Society's position on vaccinations? Will proof of vaccination be required to participate or volunteer in the BC Winter Games?	Proof of full vaccination will be required for all groups taking part in the Greater Vernon 2022 BC Winter Games. The Board of the BC Games Society (on October 21, 2021) has determined that all athletes, coaches, and officials must be fully vaccinated in order to participate in the Greater Vernon 2022 BC Winter Games. Earlier, the local host society announced proof of full vaccination is required for all directors, liaisons, chairs, staff, and general volunteers. As many as 2,000 volunteers will be needed for the Games. For more details see the release issued October 2021.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	December 8, 2021
What health screening for COVID-19 will be in place?	All participants and volunteers will be required to complete an online COVID-19 health screening declaration in the days leading up to the Games. In addition, all participants and volunteers are expected to do a self-assessment each day of the Games (participants before leaving their accommodation site, and volunteers before arriving for their first shift of the day). If at any time they are not feeling well, participants will report to their coach who will then notify Medical Services and volunteers will report to their supervisor and not attend their shift. All Games venues will have prominent COVID-19 self-assessment signage at entry points.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	June 17, 2021

How can you ensure that participants and volunteers will be safe?	The health and wellbeing of everyone at a BC Winter Games is of critical importance. For this reason, the BC Games Society will implement consistent health measures for all individuals involved in the Games, whether they are participants, volunteers, or guests. These measures include health screening, reducing major contact points, giving participants and volunteers more space, and creating layers of defence.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	June 17, 2021
Who will monitor the COVID-19 health screening for completion?	Participants and volunteers will be required to complete an online COVID-19 health screening declaration prior to attending the Games (participants before travelling to the Games, for volunteers before their first shift). It is then each individual's responsibility to do a self-assessment on each day at the Games (participants before leaving their accommodation site, and volunteers before arriving for their first shift of the day). If at any time they are not feeling well, participants will report to their coach who will then notify Medical Services and volunteers will report to their supervisor and not attend their shift. Coaches will assist with this process by confirming with their athletes each morning that the self-assessment was done and that they are not feeling sick. Volunteer Chairs or supervisors will do the same with volunteers as they arrive for their shift each day. If at any time they are not feeling well, participants will report to their coach who will then notify Medical Services and volunteers will report to their supervisor and not attend their shift.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	December 8, 2021
Who will monitor physical distancing at venues/events?	It is each person's responsibility to monitor and adjust the space between themselves and others. This includes considering distance between those with the Games Cohort and others outside of their Cohort.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	June 17, 2021
What happens if one or more people at the Games test positive for COVID-19?	Working in collaboration with the local health authority, a COVID-19 exposure plan including access to testing will be in place for the Games. This will include the steps required to manage an exposure, sourcing suitable quarantine locations, having appropriate supervision and transportation on a case-by-case basis,	Sport Partner and Volunteer	December 8, 2021

Masks
What is the BC Games Society’s mask policy?	All participants and volunteers are required to wear non-medical masks while indoors. This requirement will also extend to outdoor settings where social distancing cannot be maintained. Exceptions to this requirement will be extended in scenarios such as eating meals and sleeping in Games accommodation. On the field of play, the BC Games Society will defer to each individual Provincial Sport Organization and their Return to Sport plan to determine whether athletes, coaches, and officials are required to wear a mask during training and/or competition and/or while at the venue.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	June 17, 2021
What if I can’t wear a mask for health reasons?	Because the Games bring many people together from different areas of the province, the BC Games Society is making masks mandatory for all participants and volunteers. This policy is designed to maintain the safety and comfort of everyone at the Games. Mask exemptions will be considered for those situations as defined in the PHO order on face coverings.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	June 17, 2021

General
Will there be an Opening or Closing Ceremony?	This BC Winter Games will go forward with no mass-gatherings. This means no traditional Opening Ceremony or Closing Ceremony. Instead, a virtual Opening Ceremony will stream on Thursday evening with opportunities for participants to view at their accommodation site within their Games Cohorts. A virtual Closing Ceremony will stream Sunday afternoon.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	December 8, 2021
Where will I be able to buy Games souvenirs and merchandise?	All merchandise and souvenir items will be available online. No physical sales kiosks will be set-up at the Games.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	June 17, 2021
I want to watch my child compete. Can I attend the Games as a spectator?	The BC Games Society expects all spectators to be fully vaccinated; spectators will have their proof of vaccination checked upon every entry into a venue, as per the PHO.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	December 8, 2021
Is there a way families and spectators can view from home?	The BC Games is planning to provide webcasting coverage for all sports allowing families to watch their loved ones while remaining safely within their home community. Virtual/live streaming versions of the Opening Ceremony and Closing Ceremony will be produced and each sport will feature some webcasting coverage. Coverage may not be available for all competition times or all fields/courts; but all sports will receive coverage. In addition, the Greater Vernon 2022 BC Winter Games volunteers are putting plans into place to ensure photographs are taken at all sports/venues/events and are posted often. Social media posts and website stories, etc. will also help capture what is happening at the Games.	Sport Partner and Volunteer	December 8, 2021
When will I get my volunteer Games accreditation badge?	The details of volunteer accreditation are still being determined. Likely volunteers will be provided with their Games accreditation at their pre-Games training session or on their first shift.	Volunteer	June 17, 2021
How will I be able to access training for my role?	As Public Health Orders limit the size of gatherings, many training sessions will be held virtually. Where virtual training is not possible, in-person training will occur in small groups and at venues where individuals can maintain appropriate distance. Masks will be mandatory for all in-person training sessions.	Volunteer	June 17, 2021
Will there be a volunteer celebration event after the Games?	The Greater Vernon 2022 BC Winter Games volunteers are exploring ways to thank and celebrate Games volunteers with an event or events that ensure a safe environment for everyone. More details will be provided as plans are developed.	Volunteer	December 8, 2021
